Pelican News

20 January 2023

We started the week on 'Blue Monday' and then slipped, slid, and skidded through the rest of the week but have arrived at Friday in good spirits...phew! One of the many joys of working with little humans is that they do not allow you to be 'blue' but do allow you to see the awe and wonder of ice through their eyes and learn again to appreciate the beauty of a frozen spider's web or the excitement of discovering a frozen puddle. There has also been plenty of excitement as this term's hobby programme got underway this week. These extra-curricular activities provide opportunity for children to take part in things they know they enjoy as well as try out things they may not have experienced before. However, I think one of the loveliest things about them is the mixed age groupings which the children really seem to enjoy too, and which bring so many benefits to their development as it allows the children to learn from each other. I have seen Year 2 children act as wonderful role-models and help some of the younger children to complete activities which in turn has enabled the Year 2 children to develop their skills of leadership (and patience!)

I am sure you will join me in extending our best wishes of love and luck to Miss Knight as she leaves us today to begin her maternity leave. We are very much looking forward to receiving the 'news' in a week or two of the new addition to her family.
